Karen Leggio

Senior Vice President and General Manager
Channel

Karen Leggio is Senior Vice President and General Manager for TE Connectivity's Channel business unit, where sales represent approximately 15% of TE's overall revenue. In this role, Karen is focused on growing TE's Channel revenue, market share and customer reach by strengthening global relationships with TE's approximately 300 distributors.

Karen joined TE in 2010 as its first Chief Procurement Officer and led the integration of TE's global spend, driving significant productivity and scale advantage for the company. Subsequently, Karen became Senior Vice President and General Manager for TE's North American Automotive business. Under her tenure, Karen broadened product offerings, expanded the customer base and launched a new facility enabling revenue to surpass a billion dollars for the first time, while developing and exporting top talent across the broader TE Enterprise.

Prior to joining TE, Karen was with Ingersoll Rand where she served as Vice President of Global Supply Chain. Before Ingersoll Rand, Karen worked for General Motors for twenty-three years where she held multiple leadership roles with increasing responsibilities across Europe, South America and North America in the areas of operations, procurement, logistics, supplier quality, and program management. Karen was recognized in 2005 by Automotive News as one of the Top 100 Women in the Automotive Industry.

Karen currently serves as Chairman for the TE Connectivity Foundation, whose mission is to connect and strengthen global communities through access to technology and engineering for all, with an emphasis on women and underserved populations. She has also been a member of the North Carolina Chamber of Commerce since 2015.

Karen earned her Bachelor's degree from Michigan State University's Supply Chain Management program and her Masters of Science degree in Operations from Purdue University in West Lafayette, Indiana where she attended on a General Motors' Fellowship scholarship.
